Summary

A former lawyer, I transitioned into web development driven by a passion for technical creation. My dual skill set enables me to combine analysis, problem-solving, and regulatory compliance. Depending on project needs, I can work on front-end and back-end development, and easily adapt to new programming languages thanks to strong learning skills. I find motivation in collaborative environments and am committed to client satisfaction. Eager to broaden my perspective and immerse myself in a new culture, I would be enthusiastic to have an experience as a developer within a European or Canadian company.
